Marine Terminal HSE Manager - Jacksonville, FL

Position Overview
Our client is looking for marine terminal HSE manager with experience working in a containerized operation. The Health, Safety, Environmental (HSE) Manager is responsible for planning, implementing, and maintaining the occupational health, safety, environmental , and training programs to ensure operational excellence throughout the Company . This position works with management to develop policies and procedures for maintaining a safe work environment for Company operations.

Core Responsibilities for HSE Manager
This role will have the following responsibilities:

- Plan, implement, and maintain HSE programs, policies, and procedures

- Formulate and communicate safety objectives to all departments and personnel.

- Maintain and distribute regulatory compliance information to HSE personnel and management.

- Perform facility inspections to identify potential health, safety, and environmental hazards.

- Investigate and document accidents, injuries, and unsafe workplace conditions and practices.

- Prepare incident reports and update all applicable databases and spreadsheets to maintain accurate records.

- Develop and implement solutions to mitigate identified workplace safety hazards.

- Assist department managers in preparing written appeals for occupational health, safety, and environmental violations.

- Maintain a comprehensive understanding of Workers ' Compensation Law and OSHA recordkeeping guidelines.

- Provide leadership and education in zero-incident safety culture and assume personal accountability and responsibility for safe work practices in all operations.

Essential Skills & Experience
- Bachelor's degree in occupational safety, industrial hygiene or safety-related field

- 5+ years of experience in the maritime industry other industrial segments will be considered

- HSET training, and safety experience may be considered in lieu of the bachelor's degree.

- Experience with the USCG conducting marine facility inspections is a plus.

- Strong organizational/ management capabilities

- Sound knowledge of OSHA, and Container Terminal safety regulations

- Familiarity with relevant CFRs is a required

- MS Office (particularly Word, Excel, Outlook, and PowerPoint)

To apply contact Jack Mylott at jack@flagshipmgt.com or call 954-577-5100.

Deadline to apply is March 11th